

About Us

PRC began nearly twenty years ago under the vision of Founder and CEO Arthur Krantz. Since the beginning, Krantz's interest in the environment has been a major influence of his mission as an entrepreneur. Already a success in the close-out business, Krantz began work to develop a broader, more efficient means of recycling durable consumer goods.

What Krantz and PRC developed was a new method of recycling whereby returned products could be "re-manufactured " into high quality market alternatives available throughout North America. In the past 15 years, PRC and its partners have pioneered and revolutionized the remanufacturing industry.

Today, PRC is headquartered in St. James, NY- in a 100,000 square foot facility dedicated to the efficient and effective processing of returned products . Each and every individual at PRC is committed to the partnerships we form with our customers to provide a complete solution for returned products. We dedicate ourselves to accomplishing this in everything we do.

Our culture is one where every individual is valued and we all live and breathe product returns. Visitors are stunned when they see the compassion we have for every product we touch.

Who's to tell where the company will find itself in the next ten years? Arthur Krantz and the people at PRC invite you to take that journey along with them.